

SHOW HOME SHOUT OUT

INNOVATION STATION

Designer Chip Wade from HGTV and Wade Works Creative, and architect Bob Masulis of RM Design Studio have created a showstopper of a show home, available for viewing right in your own living room. Dubbed the Innovation Show Home (innovationshowhome.com), it includes a virtual reality tour with a who's who of involved vendors and brands like GE, Daltile, Marvin Windows and Doors, Frontgate and more. With one click, users can guide themselves around a contemporary masterpiece and click on each aspect to find out more. For example, if you're interested in the hexagonal tiles laid between the bifold doors and the water feature (hey, it's all virtual, so anything they could dream, they created!), an info button will tell you it's Daltile and lead you directly to purchase for a seamless experience. Take a virtual gander around the home—be sure to play with the light fixtures, and check out the handy tips too—and get inspired. —LF

The 3D 2018 Innovation Show Home

DO-GOOD DESIGN

PAPER CHASE

For Ryan Hughes, founder of R Hughes, the decision to carry hot California- and Mexico-based brand Fisher Weisman was an easy one. “We felt that there was nothing else that looks like it on the market,” says Hughes. “The use of materials and finishes are just so unique and special to Fisher Weisman.” Adding to the good vibes is the brand’s dedication to giving back through providing its women workforce with the ability to work from home to not only care for their children, but to also help them gain financial independence, giving new meaning to the phrase “It takes a village.” Hughes is especially enamored with the Cairo chandelier (to the trade) for fall—a stunning steel and papier-mache chandelier that can be customized with additional links by the foot. ADAC, Ste. 320, r-hughes.com; fisherweisman.com
—Drew Dagan

NEW DIGS

Maverick of Custom Made The new Westside location of Skylar Morgan Furniture + Design is only around the corner from its old address, but gains 44,000 square feet of combined factory, design studio, office and showroom space. The company outgrew its previous home of 16 years, but wanted to stay nearby, having made lasting connections with its neighbors and the West Midtown Design District. For the uninitiated, designer Skylar Morgan’s pieces are all made by hand right here in Atlanta—an important distinction that the biz is happy to show off. It’s now an all-encompassing experience for designers and their clients, no matter if they’re looking for a collaboration with Morgan or a pre-designed piece. You’ve seen Morgan’s work around town in places like South City Kitchen Buckhead, Le Fat, Ansley Country Club and more—what time is better than the present to make one of his exceptional pieces your own? 1116 Logan Circle NW, skylarmorganfurniture.com —DD

Skylar Morgan Furniture + Design’s Arciform bureau, $7,800, which debuted at ICFF this year

